Abstract: Prof. Ken Eustace is a founding director of the Internet Special Project Group (ISPG) , Charles Sturt University Australia. In 2011, he was elected president of the Border Studies (Paideia) (a free peer-to-peer supported online university established in 1995). ISPG set up the first academic & business web server in Australia and held the 5000 delegates Asia Pacific World Wide Web conference & exhibition in Sydney, Australia in early 1990s. Together with Sir Tim Berners-Lee, ISPG founding member served on the Int'l WWW Conference Committee . In the seminar, Prof. Eustace will provide an account of the web design and development in Australia and an overview of the world's first online university. The other guest speakers will share with the participants their web design and productivity experiences.
